

Coaching Professional Apprenticeship for the Higher Education Sector

BPP, in partnership with Grant Thornton, is excited to offer the Coaching Professional Apprenticeship to the Higher Education Sector

With a bigger focus on bringing together like-minded individuals to empower and build confidence within the sector, effective coaching helps to unlock your potential and performance.

This powerful programme will bring together higher education staff at all levels, and across all departments from England's University and HE population, allowing you to share best practice techniques and insight for the sector. Boost your network, your connectivity, and your knowledge by joining us on the pan-HE Level 5 Coaching Professional Apprenticeship Programme.

“

It's been a privilege to work with a wide range of higher education providers along with professional bodies and leaders of coaching to develop a new baseline of coaching quality. I'm really excited for those learners who will experience this programme, and for those who will benefit from their coaching skills.

Programme Induction and start date:

Monday 24 May 2021

BPP and Grant Thornton are pleased to be running two briefing sessions for this programme. Please note, you only need to attend one.

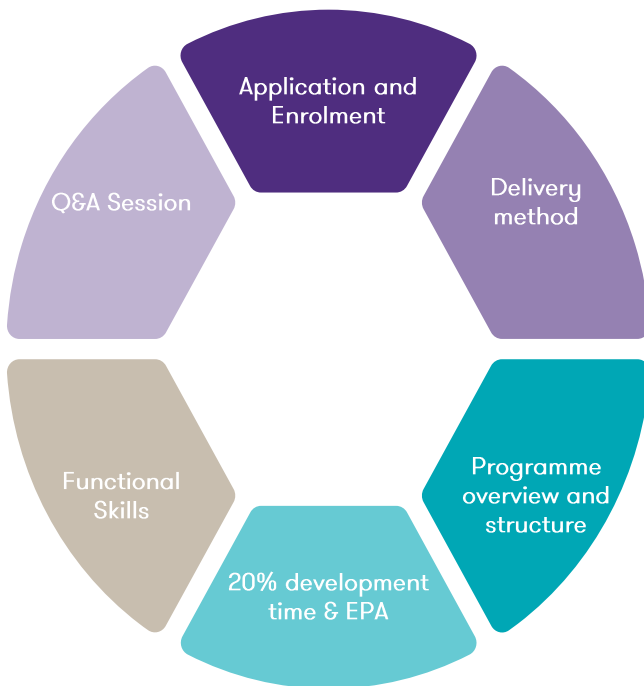

Tuesday 2 March, 12.30-1.30pm

Wednesday 17 March, 11am – 12pm

What the session will cover:

Who is the Coaching Professional Apprenticeship for?

Designed for all people who will benefit from coaching skills in their current roles and will have the opportunity to put them into practice in everyday conversations with colleagues, clients, stakeholders or students.

What does the Coaching Professional Apprenticeship offer an employer?

It can enhance the coaching provision in any organisation through a focus on the philosophies of coaching and core coaching activities such as contracting, advanced listening and questioning based on neuroscience.

In addition, it covers models and theories of coaching in the workplace, developing deep emotional intelligence and equipping your employees with a toolkit to respond to a wide range of coaching scenarios.

What does this programme offer to employees?

This programme aims to develop the capabilities of current or aspiring coaches to allow them to develop their skills and to deliver the required outcomes. They will benefit from one-to-one mentoring from experienced coach mentors and training that stretches and challenges the development of these core skills.

The completion of the programme will demonstrate they have acquired and applied the skills needed to be effective coaches.
